

Discussion Questions for Let the Church Say Amen

- Could you relate to any of the people or situations in the film?
- Compare the scenes that take place inside the World Mission Christ Church building to the scenes in the film that take place outside of the church in terms of style.
- How do these differences affect the tone of the film?
- What do you feel is the theme of this movie?
- What did you think about the way that the case of the murder of Ceodtis Fulmore's son was dealt with by the family, the church, the police and the community at large?
- Did your opinion of any of the church or any of its members change from the introduction to the end?
- Given the chance, what questions would you ask the members of the church?
- Based on this film, what do you think is the role of organized religion in the lives of the individuals in the film and in the function of the community?
- Was there something to this particular group of people that allowed a church like the World Mission Christ Church to function so positively?
- Why do you think that the people in the film turned to the church for support rather than other options?